

Big Oregon Flood Hits Weak Dikes

BY WILLIAM PHIPPS

Portland, Ore., June 7. (P)—The Army today threw a fresh engineering field command against the raging Columbia river. It was a desperate attempt to hold the weakening 100-mile dike front from Portland to the Pacific.

Twenty-six officers of the Army Engineer Corps rushed to critical points in the heavily barricaded lower valley as the great river built up pressure with its second flood wave in a week. The reinforcements, including five lieutenant colonels, flew in during the night from Fort Belvoir, Va.

Huge Job Ahead
The time was short, the task huge.

Prevent expansion of the flood toll by the Columbia and Fraser rivers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Canada's British Columbia—26 dead, 52 missing, about 60,000 homeless, damage of perhaps $140,000,000.

The new flood crest was deep into the already hard hit industrial area around Portland and Vancouver, across the Columbia in Washington. It was surging downriver, building up the current that has been grinding away the dikes since the first crest rolled down six days ago.

The weather teamed with the river. So did the sea. Thermometers soared to seasonal highs throughout the northwest Sunday—90 degrees and above in the mountains where the snowpack melted fast and streamed down to add new waters to tributaries of the Columbia.

And this was the day of the season's highest tide—nine feet. It churned upriver this morning and crashed into the flood current in the critical lower river area. The collision sent the water level higher, increased the gnawing on ever-softening levee walls.

Wyandotte Bandits Rob Cars, Seize Girl

One Of Gang's Victims Calls Trooper

Detroit, June 7. (P)—A gang of highwaymen were sought by police today after they held up two cars and seized a teen-aged girl in suburban Wyandotte early today.

State police troopers from seven posts were taking part in the manhunt.

The girl, 15-year-old Patricia Fater, was rescued unharmed after state police blockaded a mile-square area of woods and swamp.

The officers arrested two men whom they identified at Larry Adams, 34, and Melvin Warner, 34, both of Inkster. They were held for questioning.

Five other men are being sought, the officers added.

A 17-year-old girl, Eleanor Warner, screaming and hysterical, was found in the area where Miss Fater was rescued.

Miss Warner told Troopers Karl Lutz and Edward Haven that three armed men in a car overhauled a light truck in which she was riding with two men. She and James Carroll fled the truck and hid in some bushes. Their companion, Carl Gekke, 16, also escaped and called state police.

Miss Fater said four men accosted her as she sat in a car with Leonard Prince, 22, and Edward Kaiser, 21. Her two companions made their way to safety after being robbed and marched for several miles by their captors.

Auto Pioneer C. W. Nash Dies

Beverly Hills, Calif., June 7. (P)—Death has stilled the heart and hand of one of America's leading industrialists, Charles Warren Nash.

Nash, who rose from an orphan boy to president of General Motors, succumbed to his home yesterday after a long illness. He had been a victim of heart disease for the last two years but remained active in the affairs of the Nash Motor company, which he founded, until about six months ago. He was 84 years old.

Born in DeKalb county, Illinois, Nash was an orphan at six and was bound out under a guardianship court order to a farmer near Flushing, Mich., to work for his board and keep. At the age of 21, under the agreement with the farmer, he was to receive $100 and three suits of clothes.

Six years later he ran away, going from farm to farm and cramming a meager education as best he could. He quit farming in 1890, went to work for a carriage works that William C. Durant built into an auto manufacturing concern in Flint.

When Durant purchased the Buick Motor Co., he made Nash president and general manager. Two years later Nash was president of General Motors and a power in the industry, but he stepped out and formed his own company, building the first Nash in 1917.

Nash was a tireless worker and success never affected his modesty. He was friendly and approachable, always.

Mrs. Nash, the former Jessie Hallack of Burton township, Michigan, died last year.

Weather Helps Halt Canada Woods Fires

Fighters Hope For Rain; Fine Pine Destroyed

Toronto, June 7. (P)—Cool and generally calm weather during the weekend helped crews seeking to encircle huge forest fires in the northland of Ontario and western Quebec.

With little change in temperature forecast for today, fire fighters held hope that for another day the fires would not run. Meanwhile fire crews tried to hold their lines around the fire areas, waiting for the flames to die down and hoping for rain. Only scattered showers were forecast for today.

Final stages of the firefighting operation will include "cruising" the burned-over area in an attempt to identify the types of timber destroyed and to estimate the loss.

The biggest fires still were those in the Mississauga and Chapleau areas of northern Ontario. Altogether those two blazes were said to cover more than 200 square miles, including burned-over and burning areas.

The Mississauga fire, north of Blind River, raged through both cutover areas and in standing timber, mostly pine. The Chapleau blaze swept stands of mixed timber, including white pine, jack-pine, spruce, birch and poplar.

Cattle Tests Start In Upper Peninsula

Lansing, June 7. (P)—Testing cattle for tuberculosis will be started in June and July in 10 Northern Michigan counties, Dr. C. F. Clark, state veterinarian reported today.

The work will start in Mackinac, Chippewa, Luce, Alger, Schoolcraft, Delta, Menominee, Gogebic, Houghton and Keweenaw. As work is completed in these counties, the remainder of the Upper Peninsula will be tested.

Dr. Clark said that county-wide TB testing has been completed in Livingston and Huron counties, soon will be ended in Macomb county and will be finished in Kent county this summer.

Congressman Owens Of Chicago Stricken

Washington, June 7. (Monday)—Rep. Thomas L. Owens, 50, of Chicago, died today in the Bethesda Naval hospital. He was stricken May 23 with a heart attack.

Owens was serving his first term in the house. He was nominated for a second term last April.

He represented the Seventh Illinois District, with a population of more than 1,000,000. He sometimes mentioned that it was the largest in the nation and that he had more constituents than some senators.

Owens was a Republican. His death brought to four the number of vacancies in the House.

Honeymoon Couple Found Dead In Bed

Seaside Heights, N. J., June 7. (P)—A honeymooning couple, mysteriously dead on their wedding night, were discovered last night in a seaside apartment.

Police broke into the apartment after the owner had become alarmed at not seeing his tenants all day. The couple was found dead in bed.

Police Chief Joseph P. McDett identified them as Mr. and Mrs. William H. Treys of Philadelphia.

Police Lieut. Edward Ryan said there was nothing to indicate the cause of the deaths.

THIEVES TAKE PORK

Benes Gives Up Post As Czech Chief

Prague, June 7. (P)—President Benes resigned today.

Premier Klement Gottwald's office announced the resignation was accepted at a special cabinet meeting.

Benes was elected to a seven-year term in 1946. He resigned once before—in 1938 after the Munich conference brought the German invasion—but reassumed the presidency in London, July 21, 1940. He first became president in December 1935, after Thomas G. Masaryk resigned because of age and illness. Benes had been Masaryk's foreign minister 17 years and helped him found the Czechoslovak Republic.

Last Link Gone
Three months ago Masaryk's son Jan, Benes' foreign minister, was found dead—a suicide, the Communist government said. That followed the Communist coup in February which sharply reduced Benes' powers. He resigned rather than accept the "People's Democracy Constitution" which the Communists put forward. He disagreed with its provisions and disapproved of the single ticket parliamentary elections which the Communist regime held eight days ago.

Resignation took out of the government the last strong link that this country, founded with American support, had with the west.

Benes retained that, though his powers were shorn, even after he bowed to the Communists in February. He permitted the Communists to form their government. Gottwald acknowledged at the time, in order to avoid bloodshed and rioting. Benes said the event could have "only evil results."

The constitution which Benes refused to accept was adopted May 9 by a purged, Communist-dominated parliament. Today was the deadline for Benes' signature.

Flying Wing Bomber Disaster Kills Five

Huge Craft Crashes And Burns In Desert

Muroc Air Base, Calif., June 7. (P)—The first major mishap of the giant flying wing bomber, costing five lives in a desert crash, was under investigation by the Air Force today.

Col. J. C. Moore, acting commander of the Muroc Proving Grounds, named a probe board including technical experts from the air material command at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

The five victims, identified by Wright Field, were: Maj. Don Forbes, son of Mrs. Hattie Forbes, Topeka, Kans.; Capt. Glen W. Edwards, son of Claude Edwards, Route 1, Box 267, Lincoln, Calif.; Lt. Edward Swindell, husband of Mrs. Edna Swindell, Virginia Beach, Va.; C. C. Leser, son of Henry Leser Jr., Joliet, Ill.; and C. H. LaFontaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo LaFontaine, Hudson Falls, N. Y.

Leser and LaFontaine were civilians. All of the five were attached to the flight test division of the air material command.

The huge eight jet engine craft crashed and burned Saturday near here without radioing a distress signal, Muroc officers said. Built by Northrop Aircraft Inc., and designated the YB-49, the tailless wing has been described as perhaps the world's fastest bomber.

It was one of five, each weighing 44 tons and spanning 172 feet across, at Muroc Air Base. Northrop is scheduled to build 10 more.

Gen. Eisenhower succeeds Dr. Frank D. Fackenthal, who has served as acting president since Oct. 1, 1945, when the late Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia president for 43 years, retired.

The general will be inaugurated formally as president of Columbia next October.

He had won the congressional medal on Guadalcanal and then volunteered for a second tour of duty in the Pacific. He died then on Iwo Jima.

Powers Push Separate West Germany State

Aides Seek Larger Crowds For Truman On Campaign Jaunt

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

Aboard Truman train en route to Sun Valley, Idaho, June 7. (P)—President Truman pushed his pre-convention campaign farther westward today while his aides sought to strengthen their advance planning for his appearances.

They attributed the size of Saturday night's crowd of 2,000 in Omaha's 10,000-seat Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum on failure of a local arrangements committee to give full notice that the general public was invited.

This explanation also was offered by coliseum manager J. J. Isaacson at the time of Mr. Truman's arrival for his farm policy speech. The address was under auspices of the 35th Division, but not limited to its members.

Speaks From Platform

Thousands of westerners greeted the president in a series of platform appearances yesterday and upwards of 5,000 saw him at Cheyenne, Wyo., where he spoke last night from the steps of the executive mansion with Democratic governors Lester Hunt of Wyoming and Lee Knous of Colorado.

The president has adopted the pattern of speaking from the platform wherever he is assured of a crowd.

At Laramie, Wyo., the president drew applause when he reminded the crowd he recently reappointed former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming for a new term as director of the mint.

He said he understood the "girls state" was meeting in the city. He praised the organization and said he'd like to meet its governor.

At Laramie, just before he retired for the night, he was met by a crowd estimated by John Swinehart, special agent of the Union Pacific Railroad, at in excess of 4,000.

Debate Choked Off On Draft Measure

Senate Dodges Argument Over Racial Issue

Washington, June 7. (P)—The Senate, pressing toward action on draft legislation, voted today to delay a proposal to forbid race segregation in the armed services.

The vote was not a direct test on how the Senate feels about race segregation. Senate leaders were confronted with the prospect of a filibuster from southerners if the proposal was not sidetracked.

They are anxious to get final action on the draft measure which, as it stands, leaves to the department of defense the question whether the army, navy and air force are to have units of mixed races.

The Senate bill would require registration of all men from 18 through 25 years, as well as doctors, dentists and others in the medical professions up to 45 years.

Those in the 19-25 age group would be subject to draft for two years' service. The 18 year olds could volunteer for one year of training up to a total of 161,000 during the next year. Both groups then must go into a reserve pool.

New Pay Schedule At General Motors Approved By Union

Detroit, June 7. (P)—The unique cost of living wage formula negotiated with General Motors Corp., 13 days ago has been approved by a majority of the 225,000 workers in GM plants, the CIO United Auto Workers reported today.

The notice automatically made the new two-year contract, providing an immediate 11-cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to May 29. The old agreement expired May 28.

The wage boost is geared to government estimates of the cost of living, and will be adjusted every three months. There is no ceiling on pay raises but not more than five of the 11 cents can be taken away regardless of price drops.

Stock Market Goes Into Slow Decline

New York, June 7. (P)—The stock market went into a slow decline today, continuing the pronounced setback of last Friday.

The market got off to a shaky start, tilted downward almost immediately, and stayed that way. Losses ranged from fractions to around a point.

Business was at the slowest rate in weeks. The ticker tape was frequently at a standstill.

THEY BEARD CONGRESS—With banners denouncing Congress for spending billions for Europe and wars, "but not a penny for the aged," the National Convention of Townsend Clubs met in Washington. ## Marquette Lifers Escape, Caught By Menominee Police

Marquette, Mich., June 7. (P)—Two recaptured life-termers who escaped from Marquette state prison Saturday were held in solitary confinement today.

The pair, John Podolski, 46, and Charles Turnetti, 45, were nabbed in Menominee while trying to find their way across the Wisconsin border in a stolen car.

Both were serving life terms for murders in Wayne county. They walked away from a construction project outside the prison walls on which they were working as trustees. They were free about 27 hours.

Menominee city police spotted the stolen car at 3 a. m. and arrested the men at gunpoint.

Police said the convicts had ridden in three taxis from Marquette to Republic and courteous-

Nebraska Delegates Split Over Truman

Slim Crowd Of 2,000 Out To Hear President

Omaha, June 7. (P)—Nebraska's delegation to the National Democratic convention was split today, but the width of the split remained uncertain.

State Chairman William Ritchie, who complained yesterday that Iowa and Nebraska Democratic leaders had been "given the bum's rush" during the president's visit to Omaha Saturday, declared he has withdrawn his support of Mr. Truman for the presidential nomination.

He said a number of others in the Nebraska delegation "feel as I do."

Ritchie termed the handling of the president's visit to Omaha for a major address during the annual reunion of the 35th division "the last straw."

He blamed the slim crowd of 2,000 who turned out to hear the president in a 10,000-seat auditorium on failure to consult Democratic officials. Ritchie said "We were not asked to do anything so we didn't." He said the so-called non-political character of the president's visit apparently consisted of "ignoring all the Democrats."

He asserted the arrangements apparently were "in the hands of Republicans" and Democrats "who do nothing for the party."

Jap Officers Tried For Killing 39,748

Yokohama, June 7. (P)—Two Japanese officers went on trial today charged with responsibility for the wartime deaths of 39,748 Americans and Filipinos—including 12,200 who fell in the Bataan "Death March."

They are Maj. Gen. Yoshitake Kawane, who commanded 14th Army Transportation; and Col. Kuratara Hirano, in charge of the 61st line of communications unit.

Both pleaded innocent before a U. S. 8th Army commission. Their Commander, Gen. Masaharu Homma, was convicted of similar charges by a U. S. tribunal in Manila and executed.

French Win Victory On Ruhr Controls; Russia Fights Plan

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 7. (P)—In the face of certain Russian opposition, the western powers announced today a five-point proposal for creating a separate, federal government in western Germany.

At the same time they revealed new measures to block any further German aggression.

The agreements, results of a six-power western nation conference which ended at London a week ago, were announced simultaneously here and in Europe.

They are subject to formal acceptance by the governments of the United States, Britain, France, and the low countries and a stiff fight over them is expected at Paris.

Security Fears Eased
It reportedly was to meet French security fears and ease French acceptance of steps to fit western Germany into European reconstruction, that the three western powers laid down their most comprehensive agreement thus far protected for keeping Germany under control.

Another victory for the French was contained in an agreement for an international control of the Ruhr "in which United States, United Kingdom, France, Benelux countries and Germany would participate, and which does not involve the political separation of the Ruhr area from Germany."

"It does, however, contemplate control of distribution of coal, coke and steel of the Ruhr," the communiqué continued.

"In order that on the one hand industrial concentration in that area shall not become an instrument of aggression and on the other will be able to make its contribution to all countries participating."

Oldest U. S. Senator, Capper Quits At 83

Kansas Solon Announces He Won't Run Again

BY KARL BAUMAN
Washington, June 7. (P)—The Senate's oldest member, kindly Arthur Capper of Kansas, is going to retire.

His decision not to seek re-election came as a surprise.

He had announced that he would be a candidate again. More recently he said he had no plans to withdraw from the race despite the views expressed privately by some of his friends.

Capper will be 83 July 14, and his age had been a matter of public discussion in Kansas. Public efforts to get him to withdraw began with an editorial by William L. White in the Emporia Gazette. Then Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, announced his newspaper would not support Capper for re-election.

"I love him," Roberts told a University of Kansas student assembly May 12. "But I don't want a man 80 or 90 years old representing us in writing the (peace) treaty that will affect you students and my grandson."

"No comment—but I still love him," Roberts said after Capper announced yesterday he would not run again.

Capper was elected to the Senate in November, 1918, taking his seat the following January. He was re-elected in 1924, 1930, 1936 and 1942.

A non-smoking teetotaler, he has served longer than any other Republican senator. Only Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee ranks him in seniority. McKellar came to the Senate two years before.

FOREST ROAD WORK PLANNED

Will Blacktop 10 Miles Through Wetmore

The improvement of more than 10 miles of Federal Forest Highway No. 13 with the application of an oil aggregate surface is planned by the state highway department, and will complete the hard surfacing of the road through the Hiawatha National Forest from Nahma Junction to Wetmore.

Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, has announced that bids will be opened in Escanaba June 16 for the FFH-13 and two other projects in the Upper Peninsula.

The federal forest highway job calls for oil aggregate (blacktop) surfacing for a total of 10.78 miles at the northern section of the road, extending from the end of the present completed hard surface north to M-28 at Wetmore. The new surface will be 18 feet wide. The completion date is Sept. 1, 1948.

The two other highway jobs on which bids will be taken June 16 include:

Ontonagon county—6.418 miles of grade widening on US-45 northwest to Rockland and 1,568 miles of grade widening on US-45 south and east from Rockland. The work is preparatory to applying a blacktop surface.

Ontonagon county—4.926 miles on US-45 from Bruce's Crossing south; 6.321 miles on M-26 to the Houghton-Ontonagon county line, and a fraction of a mile in Houghton county; and 13 miles on US-45 north and south of Rockland.

THESE ARE THE DEADLIEST KILLERS—Here's a comparison between the greatest causes of death in 1900 and in 1946. The most complete figures available. Note that scientists have virtually wiped out the 1900's Big Three. Heart diseases and cancer are now far and away the worst killers. Diabetes, which does not appear on the 1900 list, was not fully known and understood then. Chart compiled from Metropolitan Life Insurance Company figures.

Summer Is Critical For Crowded State Mental Hospitals

Lansing, (AP) — If Michigan's mental hospitals can get over the summer months without trouble they may be able to handle the constantly growing list of mental cases for another two years—and then the deluge.

That summarizes the observations of C. A. Wagg, secretary of the State Mental Health commission. Wagg was instructed by Governor Sigler to increase the overcrowding in state hospitals to relieve an "acute" situation in the Detroit receiving hospital psychiatric wards.

Wagg said he was making 50 additional beds available now at Pontiac state hospital and later would have 20 more ready there. Another 20 will be available later at the Traverse City state hospital and then the institutions are full, he said.

"Those 90 beds will keep us going for a couple of months," Wagg said, "but our big worry is whether they will carry us until about Sept. 1 when 250 more beds will be ready in a new unit at the Ypsilanti state hospital. The late summer will be our critical period."

Another 250 new beds will be ready at Ypsilanti in the late fall as well as a third unit of 200 beds at Pontiac, Wagg said. The legislature recently provided money for 200 more at Pontiac but completion of that is reported to be a long way off.

Patients Fanned Out
"With 500 patients fanned out in private hospitals and boarding homes in Detroit, 530 at the temporary hospital in Sault Ste. Marie and our institutional overcrowding reaching 22 per cent, we are almost at the end of the rope," Wagg said.

"This new construction will give us a breathing space for one or two years, but then I don't know what we will do."

Wagg said the commission's plan to build a new hospital at Northville to relieve Wayne county problem was intended to come into operation by the end of the second year, relieving the overcrowding.

"The legislature's failure to provide money for Northville," Wagg said, "will prove very serious after the second year. There will be nothing ready then to relieve the emergency."

The opposition of Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, lieutenant governor, and a group of Senators, blocked funds for Northville at the recent special legislative session.

At the same time, a special legislative committee reported it would begin in two weeks an audit of the books of the Eloise hospital, a Wayne county institution.

Committee members said they planned to hire "several" auditors and to meet then with members of the Wayne county Board of Auditors.

Legislators have contended that the state pays too much for state patients committed to the Eloise institution in comparison with costs in state institutions. They want to find out why.

WAX HOPS UP HOPPERS

Iowa City, Iowa (AP)—A little bit of wax helps put the hop into grasshoppers. The waxy material has been found on shells of grasshopper eggs by Dr. Eleanor H. Slifer, assistant professor of zoology at the University of Iowa.

When winter comes, the waxy stuff forms on part of the egg, blocking the entrance for absorption of water. The water is necessary for the growth of the egg. Thus the eggs lie dormant. But cold weather breaks this wax seal, Dr. Slifer said, and with warm weather the eggs begin developing again, and hatch into young grasshoppers.

Dr. Slifer has been studying a type of grasshopper which is a plague in the mid-west. She hopes the studies may lead to methods of controlling the "hoppers."

Woman Fined For Reckless Driving

Mrs. Charles McKowan, 1125 Stephenson avenue, was fined $15 and costs in justice court Saturday on a plea of guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

The charge was an outgrowth of a traffic accident in which an Escanaba Taxi company cab swerved into a curb to avoid hitting Mrs. McKowan's car. A cab passenger, Mrs. Steve Rozich, jr., sustained a wrenched ankle.

Mrs. McKowan reported that she looked into the back seat of her car, momentarily losing control of the car which moved towards the approaching cab.

Soap Made With Aluminum Secret Of Gasoline Jelly

BY WATSON DAVIS
Director, Science Service
Chicago.—The war-time secret of what makes gasoline thicken into a jelly for use as a liquid incendiary in flame-throwers or fire bombs was revealed here.

It is a soap made with aluminum instead of the usual chemicals used in ordinary soap, Dr. Walter H. C. Rueggeberg of the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood, Md., told the American Chemical Society.

Existence of jellied or thickened gasoline was known during the war particularly in the Pacific and especially to the Japs in dug-outs who learned the hard, flaming-hot way. But it was not told just how the scientists thickened the fuel and made it so jelly-like that it stuck to things it was thrown against.

Aluminum soap thickeners consist of three kinds of chemicals: 1. an aluminum salt of the soap-forming saturated, fatty acids. 2. an unsaturated soap-forming fatty acid. 3. naphthenic acid. These are used separately or as a mixture. Napalm, one of the most successful of the incendiary gels, is an aluminum soap of an oleic, naphthenic and coconut fatty acid mixture.

These aluminum soaps have interesting and unusual properties that no other similar group of compounds possess. They become thick and viscous when shaken. They make the gasoline "set" when mixed with it. Chemists call this property "thixotropic."

Under cloak of post-war secrecy, it is known that experiments are being pushed vigorously to make even thicker and more solid gasoline so that fuel can be stored and handled somewhat like a solid instead of a liquid. This present military research is probably based on the war-time successes, although it was not discussed at the meeting.

Dr. Rueggeberg did make known that natural and synthetic rubbers as well as plastic resins such as the polyacrylates can be used as fuel thickeners. These produce jellies that are somewhat different from the soap-thickened fuels.

Hungarian Cardinal Warns Catholics Of Government Deceit

Budapest, Hungary, June 7. (AP)—Hungarian Roman Catholics had instructions from their Cardinal today to stop reading Government party newspapers and listening to Hungarian radio broadcasts.

In a pastoral letter read yesterday in all Roman Catholic churches, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the primate of Hungary, declared:

"To the bitter disgrace of this country, falsehood, deceit and terror were never greater in the course of her history."

He said "monstrous moral pressure" was being exerted by the Communist-dominated government of Hungary and denied that any negotiations were in progress between the church and the state.

The latter apparently referred to government plans to take over church-maintained schools. Cardinal Mindszenty previously threatened to excommunicate any Catholic who supports the plan. Education Minister Gyula Otváti sent a letter to the Cardinal demanding that he put a stop to Catholic "agitation" against the plan.

New Airplane Ice Detector Devised

Berkeley, Cal.—Greater safety for private airplanes is promised in a new carburetor ice detector revealed here by the Lindbergh Instrument Company. When dangerous ice begins to form in the engine fuel induction system, a neon light flashes on the instrument board.

This gives the pilot ample warning in time to turn on his preheater, and thus avoid the danger of engine choking and a crash landing. The ice-choking of engines in flight is not a rare occurrence. Over one-fourth the engine failure accidents in planes during 1946 were due to icing conditions, according to the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board. These occurred principally in the light plane field, and might have been avoided if the new device, which costs less than fifty dollars, had been available.

SCHOOL AID IS PROPOSED

McCarran Introduces Bill In Senate

Washington, D. C., (WNS) — Legislation has been introduced to authorize a Federal aid program for construction of additional public school facilities in the nation. Under this bill a project could be carried out in the vicinity of Escanaba.

Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada has introduced a bill which provides continuing authority for appropriations for school construction, to be granted to states partly on the basis of population and partly on the basis of each state's proportion of internal revenue collections.

According to Federal Works Agency records, school facilities are to be improved at Rock in the Maple Ridge township school district, including work on the gymnasium, auditorium, and addition of a kindergarten, lunchroom, and offices. Funds amounting to $2,475 have been made available for preliminary planning.

Senator McCarran himself does not predict action on his bill by this Congress. However he has introduced it so it may be studied between now and January and hopes it may come to an early vote next year.

Under the provisions school authorities could receive a grant of 50 per cent of a project cost and could borrow the other 50 per cent from the government at 2 1/2 per cent interest. Loans would not be made except to a school authority which could not finance its share of the cost except on terms less favorable than those provided in the measure. Michigan's state school authority would have to approve the Delta County project.

VA Warns Against 'Side Payments' In G. I. Bill Aid

Veterans Administration today cautioned veterans, builders and lenders against the consequences of making or accepting so-called "side payments" in the sale of home properties to veterans with the aid of G. I. loans.

VA said such side payments—usually made for the purpose of evading the prohibition against sales to veterans in excess of appraised "reasonable value"—are a direct violation of law and subject offenders to possible federal prosecution.

Many cases have been reported in which veterans have been induced to pay the builder or seller an amount over the above the sales price shown on the loan report submitted to VA, and upon which the government loan guarantee is based.

Veterans who knowingly conspire to evade the law by making such side payments risk loss of their rights under all veterans' laws, VA warned.

Cyril Hoebeckx Files Countersuit

Marquette, Wis.—A divorce and an award in keeping with his equity in their holdings was asked by Cyril Hoebeckx from his wife, the former Elizabeth George of Menominee, in a countersuit filed yesterday afternoon with Harry N. Gilbertson, clerk of circuit court at Menominee. An answer to her original petition for a divorce was also filed.

In both the countersuit and the answer, Hoebeckx claims that his wife is "peculiarly susceptible to the convincing suggestions and influence of others hostile" to Hoebeckx.

He claimed his equity in their property is $60,000 and denied that she paid for all their holdings including the Menominee home valued at more than $125,000. He said in his answer to her complaint that he contributed "heavily in money, time, labor and supervision" and that the money he had saved during his service in World War II in the Marines went into the business in Marquette.

Sigler Gets Running Start On Opposition With Airplane Hops

By JACK I. GREEN
June 5 (AP)—Governor Sigler is sneaking a head start on any one who might be tempted to run against him this year.

Without any fanfare, Sigler has suddenly slipped out on the track and is running easily far ahead of the field.

It will take some puffing and blowing to catch up with him. Each week, the Governor addresses about half a dozen groups somewhere in the state, popping out of Lansing by plane and then reappearing at his desk a few hours later. He estimates he spoke to about 10,000 persons last weekend alone.

And, there is a strong chance he will campaign in that unorthodox fashion clear through the summer. It is much easier and much cheaper—and probably much more effective—than a formal stump tour.

In fact, it's smart politics and politicians think the governor would be wise to keep it up unless some strong candidate gets on the speaking platform and forces Sigler to start punching hard.

There are a lot of sores in the Michigan Republican party, and Sigler probably can do himself and the party more good by these friendly neighborhood visits when everyone is relaxed, than he could by a stem-winding campaign swing.

Sigler hints he may not make any formal campaign tour this year, but that probably depends on the type—if any—of opposition he encounters.

The administration is watching the tall grass like a hawk for signs of an opposing primary candidate. Much of the governor's administrative strategy appears to be dictated by a desire not to stir up any candidates right now.

The latest buzz about opposition is flickering around the name of recusers court Judge W. McKay Skillman of Detroit. Skillman is reported to be under pressure from anti-Siglerites to get into the race.

So far the judge has been artfully non-committal. He doesn't say yes and he doesn't say no.

Asked by a reporter if he would be a candidate, Skillman chuckled back: "Why, it never entered my mind. I've never even thought of it. There's nothing to say now."

But Skillman evaded a direct question as to whether he would refuse to enter the race.

It is no secret that former governor Alex J. Groesbeck, Detroit Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy and Attorney General Eugene F. Black are hunting for a candidate against the governor, and they seem to be the ones putting the heat on Skillman.

The Skillman backers contend that the judge would trim the parts off Sigler in Detroit.

If he did it would be ironic, because Sigler gave Skillman the biggest boost up he has ever had in his years on the bench. The governor got Skillman the assignment of auto rackets grand juror, and Skillman has gathered in a million dollars worth of political publicity as a result.

There is also no question but that if Skillman threw down the gauntlet to Sigler, that Black would don his full war paint and take to the trail hunting the governor's scalp.

Skillman is not nearly so well known outside, and his chances of success there would depend probably on his campaign activity. He is a big, genial, bald-headed man with a friendly approach.

The consensus in Lansing is that any candidate will have a tough time this year knocking off the governor, despite the enmities he has created in the legislature and in portions of the party.

Reports reaching the capital from apparently impartial observers suggest that Sigler has slipped from his 1946 peak, but that he still has the support of the bulk of the rank-and-file voters.

It seems reasonable that a campaign to dim his lustre must start earlier than June in the year in which he seeks reelection.

Thus, Sigler, confident and relaxed, can get his fences mended with the least amount of effort. So on sunny summer afternoons he slips out the rear of the capitol to the airport, skims his own plane into the blue yonder and drops again an hour later in Crump, or Wayland, or Mesick or Fruitport, gives the home folks a glittering defense of democracy and good government and before you know it he's back in his gold and green office shaking hands with the school kids who come to see the sights—of which his shining silver hair is one.

It's a nice way to run for governor.

Menominee Airport Paving Will Start

Menominee, Mich.—Contract for construction of two-hard-surfaced runways on the Menominee county airport was signed by Albert F. Kipfel, of Stephenson, chairman of the county board of supervisors, and County Clerk Harry N. Gilbertson for the county and C. J. Garvey of Appleton, Wis., president of the Fox Valley Construction company.

The Appleton concern was awarded the contract when its bid of about $88,000 was the lowest submitted at a bid-opening session here on April 28 conducted by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Michigan Department of Aeronautics.

The Fox Valley contract calls for a two-inch blacktop pavement on a seven-inch gravel base on the northwest-southeast (4,200-foot) and the north-south (3,200-foot) runways. The pavements will be 100 feet wide and a taxi strip will be constructed to the paved apron in front of the administration building. Work on

City Water Problem

THE decision of the Escanaba city council to conduct tests to determine whether a Ranney well will solve the problem of the city's water supply is a further attempt by the council to find an economical answer to the water problem.

The cost of the tests has been estimated at $5,000 to $6,000. If the tests show that a Ranney well will not operate satisfactorily here because of improper geological formations, the money will be lost. But if the tests reveal that a Ranney well will meet the problem, the city will be able to save perhaps as much as $300,000. The cost of a Ranney well, which filters surface water through beds of gravel, is estimated at $175,000 to $200,000. The cost of a new filtration plant, necessary if water is to be taken directly from the bay, is figured at $500,000.

There is, of course, still another alternative—the drilling of additional deep wells, but tests already made indicate that this would not only be expensive but would not necessarily meet the water problem in the years ahead. It is unlikely that the city will gamble further with deep wells.

Whatever the solution, it is certain that Escanaba will soon have to make a substantial outlay for an adequate and completely satisfactory source of water.

Crack Down On Lewis

FEDERAL Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who has cracked down on John L. Lewis on several occasions in the past, has ordered Lewis to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers' association. Lewis had refused to bargain with the Southern group because he dislikes the Southern association's bargaining agent, Joseph E. Moody. Needless to say, most of the coal producers dislike John L. Lewis, too, but that dislike is no authority for them to refuse to bargain with Lewis. The plain and simple truth is that Lewis, power-mad, is too big for his breeches. He believes that laws are made for the regulation of other persons but not for him. As a result his position in recurring labor disputes has been unreasonable and arbitrary and the public has been made to suffer for it.

Lewis is the bargaining representative of 99 local coal unions, for all miners in the entire coal industry for that matter. And yet he has the gall to say that the Southern producers cannot have one representative for their 14 units unless that representative is approved in advance by Lewis.

Judge Goldsborough has come forward once again to protect the public interest. He has directed the coal miners' czar to bargain with the Southern producers, along with the rest of the coal industry. In issuing the order, the federal judge made it clear that he considers Lewis despotic, adding "There is no such thing as a benevolent despot."

To which we can only say, "Amen."

Deadlock Likely At GOP Convention

WITH only two weeks remaining before the Republican national convention at Philadelphia, it seems certain that none of the candidates will have anything like a sufficient number of pledged votes to assure nomination on the first ballot, or for that matter in the early balloting for the presidential selection.

The three leading candidates—Governor Dewey, Harold Stassen and Senator Taft—have successfully claimed leadership in the race for the GOP nomination but none has claimed a number of delegate votes even close to the 548 required for nomination. Stassen has made the most extravagant claim, 340 votes.

There is only the most remote possibility that the leading candidates will pool their strength to nominate one of the three. Stassen and Dewey are at loggerheads on many fundamental issues and have made disparaging remarks about each other. Stassen and Taft are even further apart, particularly since Stassen entered the primary race in Ohio, Taft's home stamping ground. A Taft-Dewey coalition has been mentioned from time to time but it is not regarded as probable.

The situation seems almost certain to end in a deadlock, at least insofar as the three leaders are concerned. In that event the convention will turn to a compromise candidate and it most likely will be Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the only candidate fully acceptable to Dewey, Stassen and Taft when these three individually decide that the nomination is beyond their grasp.

Actually Senator Vandenberg undoubtedly could have snared enough delegates to assure his nomination in advance of a convention if he had decided to make a fledgling race. His popularity throughout a country is overwhelming and his leadership in foreign affairs has made him America's outstanding statesman.

Rather than seek the nomination, however, Senator Vandenberg has continued to insist that he does not desire the presidency and that he is not a candidate for the office. His utterances have left no room for doubt, however, that he would accept the nomination.

Senator Vandenberg will enter the convention with only the votes of his state delegation in a "favorite son" category, plus perhaps a handful of votes from the Pennsylvania delegation. Nevertheless, he stands a better chance of winning the nomination even now than Taft, Dewey or Stassen.

Churchill And Smuts

THE case of Jan Christian Smuts in South Africa resembles that of Winston Churchill in the United Kingdom. Both statesmen won deserved world fame for their contributions to the defeat of nazism, and both have now been removed from their high office by the will of their countrymen.

But there is an important difference. Mr. Churchill's political downfall obviously resulted from the conservatism of his domestic policies. Marshal Smuts lost out because his domestic policies are, by his opponents' standards, too radical. Yet Mr. Churchill's voice has not been silenced or his influence destroyed by political defeat. And we hope that the aging Marshal Smuts may continue to combat the program of isolation and segregation, so out of pace with progressive thought, which at present is his nation's choice.

THE BONIFAS WILL

(Marquette Eagle-Star)

The memory of Catherine Bonifas will long be cherished in Escanaba. The widow of the late lumber baron left her estate of more than two and a half millions largely to schools and churches. Though she was a devout Catholic, she included in her many bequests $820,000 to the board of education of Escanaba to finance the construction of a new senior high school building, establishment of a school for handicapped children, and construction of a junior college. A half million of that amount was set aside for the senior high school, while $150,000 will go for the school for handicapped and $100,000 for the junior college. Income from $50,000 will be set up for scholarships for worthy graduates.

The City of Escanaba was remembered by a gift of $300,000. Of this amount, $100,200 would be applied on the cost of a combined city hall and courthouse if the City of Escanaba and the county of Delta can reach an agreement to construct such a building jointly. Delta has one of the oldest courthouses in the Upper Peninsula and is sorely in need of a new one. The city was also given $100,000 for the construction of an office building to house state agencies and $100,000 was set aside for construction of recreation facilities for Escanaba's youth. The little community of Garden, where Mrs. Bonifas lived early in her married life, was left $150,000 for the construction of an elementary school.

The Escanaba schools may have John Lemmer, superintendent of schools and executor of the estate, to thank for the fact that the school system was so generously treated. Lemmer had been a close friend of the Bonifas family for many years and Mrs. Bonifas doubtless consulted him regarding the needs of the school system. It would have been difficult for Mrs. Bonifas to designate a more conscientious individual to take charge of the estate than Lemmer. Her choice of Lemmer as executor doubtless will meet with popular approval in Escanaba where he is held in high esteem. Lemmer has the rare distinction, incidentally, of being a native of Escanaba who attained the position of superintendent of schools in his home community. That doesn't often happen.

The famous Hope Diamond has been valued officially at $176,920. To any couple, however, that one on her left hand is worth a lot more.

With frozen food cabinets, we're expecting Junior to dash in any day now and shout, "When do we thaw?"

WORDS TO WATCH

Overheard on a Hollywood gossip program: "She isn't beautiful; but she may be described as KOAM-lee." The word used is comely, "pleasing in appearance; personable." The word was used correctly; but the first syllable does not rhyme with "foam; room." Rhyme it with "gum, hum" thus: KUM-lee.

Overheard on a radio commentary: "His followers include many members of the Communist Party." The pronunciation "communist" for Communist and "commonism for communism are to be avoided in careful speech. The second syllable should be "yoo" to rhyme with "pew; few." Be sure to say: KOM-yoo-nist; KOM-yoo-nizm.

Overheard in a public address: "But that is a matter that may be left to your own diss-KREE-shun." The word used is discretion, "prudence; freedom of judgment or choice." The long "e" sound in the second syllable is improper. Rhyme the second syllable with "fresh, mesh," thus: diss-KRESH-un.

Overheard on the "Town Meeting": "Nature abhors a VAK-yum." The word vacuum is listed by all dictionaries as having three syllables, thus: vac-u-um. The second syllable should be a distinct "yoo." Be sure to say: VAK-yoo-um.

There is no "sickle" in motecrycle. Never "motor-sickle." The "cy" is SY to rhyme with "by, my," thus: MO-te-ry-SY-KL.

Note: In bicycle and tri-cycle the "cycle" is pronounced "sickle," as: BY-sickle,

World Events Analyzed

BY PETER EDSON

Washington. (NEA)—The good old tariff question, which hasn't been heard of since the days of Harding and Hoover, has again become a political issue for this year's campaign.

And the Tariff Commission is news. Nobody has paid much attention to it for years. It has gone its dull way, spending around $1,000,000 a year to pay some 200 employees housed principally in the old Land Office Building back of the Civil Service Commission, near where Booth shot Lincoln.

House passage of California Congressman Bertrand E. Gearhart's amendments to the reciprocal trade agreements program has brought the commission into the limelight. These Gearhart amendments would extend the Trade Agreements Act for one year instead of three, but with a number of changes which Secretary of State George Marshall says would be worse than having no act at all.

It now looks as if the Senate would pass the House bill. If it does, the president will have to decide whether to veto it, thereby letting the 14-year-old trade policy die and blaming the GOP.

State Department willingness to let Cordell Hull's pet program for promoting world trade expire on June 12 is apparently based on a belief that after election, with a new president and a new Congress of the same political party, the issue could be considered in a non-partisan way like any other foreign policy matter.

WOULD CRIPPLE COMMISSION

The man whose opinion on the Gearhart amendments should count most, however, is the chairman of the Tariff Commission. That happens to be the Hon. Oscar B. Ryder of Virginia. Now 63, he has been connected with the Tariff Commission since 1919—as economist until 1933, then as a member and chairman of the non-partisan commission.

If the Gearhart amendments become law, the whole responsibility for tariff rate limitations in trade agreements would be thrown on the Tariff Commission.

In a letter to Congressman Robert L. Doughton, Ryder has spelled out what the Gearhart amendments would do to the Tariff Commission. In the first place, the commission would have to hire from 50 to 100 per cent more people. For the commission would be required to make an investigation and report to the president on tariff concessions that might be granted on every article listed in a proposed trade agreement. Some agreements cover 100 or more items.

The commission would also be required to hold public hearings on every trade agreement. Some of these investigations might be made in from four to six months, says Ryder, if the commission had no other work to do. For multiple negotiations such as the State Department conducted with 23 nations at Geneva last year, from one to two years would be required. If the commission were forced to go into cost of production studies, the time of investigation might be doubled. Back in 1922 the commission had to make a cost study on granite. It took four years and became known as "The Tombstone Investigation."

The Tariff Commission consists of six members—three Republicans and three Democrats. If the commission split three to three or some question no tariff concession could be made on that article, regardless of what the president might think about it. The Tariff Commission was set up in 1916 as an impartial fact-finding agency, with all policy determinations left to the president and Congress. Chairman Ryder says he doubts the advisability of now trying to convert the commission into a policy-making agency. As such it would be subject to politics and to direct pressures from industries seeking special protection.

These are some of the things that Secretary Marshall is talking about when he says that the Gearhart amendments would cripple the making of new trade agreements with foreign countries.

NEED FOR IMPORTS STANDS OUT

One of the main points overlooked in this whole tariff controversy is the need for building up U. S. imports. This country can't go on forever giving away its exports in the form of relief and recovery programs. Somehow, foreign countries must find some way to earn the dollars to pay for the goods they buy from this country. The reciprocal trade agreements program seems to offer the best device yet thought of to encourage world trade and so help world recovery.

If the Republican action in blocking this program is a sample of what to expect from the new Republican administration and Congress that will probably be elected this November, it is something to look forward to with considerable fear and trembling. What it augurs is a return to the "normalcy" of Warren G. Harding, the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act of 1930 which got retaliation from nearly every important foreign trading country, hastened the depression and international economic isolation which brought on World War II.

TRY-sickle. This is to avoid the disturbing repetition of the long "i" sound in the first and second syllables. In all other "cycle" words, however, "cycle" is pronounced: SY-KL.

Overheard on a garden club program: "... rocks covered with lichen." The word used is lichen, a kind of moss. But it should not rhyme with "kitchen." Pronounce lichen exactly like the word lichen, thus: LY-K'n.

Do you know when to use "herself," "yourself," "myself," etc? If not, Mr. Colby's leaflet, C-23, "Self Words," will explain two rules to help you use these words correctly.

Not a Very Nice Way to Welcome a Newcomer

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

THE RAIN—When it began to rain Friday morning the children complained because "it's raining on the first day of our vacation." We told them they should be grateful for the rain, since it had been very dry for more than a week. Rain is required if crops are to grow, if man is to live, if the world is to stay green and pleasant.

Yes, they said, that it true—but why does it rain the first day we are out of school?

And so we enlarged upon the value of rain. There would be no clouds of moisture in the sky, or lakes to reflect the glory of the sunset. In fact there would be no colorful sunset without rain, and the sun would bombard the earth with rays of furious heat uninterrupted by the protective layers of atmosphere that now insulates the earth against the sun.

Sure, they said, and the rain causes floods. Nobody wants a flood—and we want to play outside and it's raining.

EXTINGUISHER—A. J. Young assistant forest supervisor for the U. S. Forest Service, had been at work in helping fight the Round Lake forest fire until 9 o'clock the night before. He had seen the fire brought under control, confined, surrounded and beaten back.

"It's raining at Round Lake," he said happily at noon Friday. "The report just came in. It started to sprinkle about 10:30 this morning, and now it's raining—hard."

The couple hundred weary men who had been battling the blaze could now go home. They saw the first drops fall from the overcast sky, splatter in the black dryness of the fire's ashes, heard the protesting sizzle as the rain struck the glowing embers. Water, the ally of man and the enemy of fire and death, had arrived, to help them. The rain came late, but it was welcome. It felt cool and good on their heat-blistered faces.

REVIVAL—The wrens that make their nest in the box swinging in the apple tree sang louder than ever Friday morning. The robins joined in the chorus. They seemed to sense that rain was coming and they voiced their approval.

They were quiet when the rain began to fall, and when it collected in a depression in the sidewalk they flew down to drink from the miniature lake. The robins went on a rainwater spree, lifting their beaks time after time to let the water slip down their gullet. One young fatty, still faintly spotted, ambled into the pool, sat down and closed his eyes.

WORRISOME—In dry weather people use more water than at other times, with most of it going through lawn sprinklers.

City Manager A. V. Aronson advised the city council Thursday night that Escanaba folks had used a total of 3,000,000 gallons of water the day before. That is about twice the average daily consumption in the city. It can be assumed, therefore, that on that particular day approximately 1,200,000 gallons of water was sprinkled squirted and otherwise deposited on lawns and gardens.

INTO THE PAST

20 Years Ago

Gladstone—Floyd Geraldeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Geraldeau, is a member of the graduating class of Wabash college in Crawfordsville, Ind.

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hemes are the parents of a daughter Mary Louise born June 6 at St. Francis hospital.

Escanaba—Francis Baldwin has been elected editor-in-chief by the Junior class of Escanaba high school, to edit the 1929 "Escanaba."

Manistiquie—Lloyd Solberg has left for a three-week visit in Los Angeles, Calif., with his parents.

10 Years Ago

Escanaba—Robert LeMire of this city received his degree in law at commencement exercises held Sunday at Notre Dame university in South Bend, Ind.

Escanaba—Hazen Hengesh, secretary of Escanaba Lions club for the past year, was elected president of the organization at a meeting held last night.

Escanaba—Joseph Thatcher Leighton received his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Southern California at exercises held Sunday in Los Angeles Coliseum.

Manistiquie—Mrs. J. Lindsley has returned from Portland, Ore., where she visited relatives and friends for the past three months.

Because the four deep wells do not supply sufficient water for peak periods, water must also be pumped from the bay. In times such as that, the city's elevated storage tank is helpful, for 500,000 gallons of water can be stored there, providing reserve in case of emergency and feeding it out at constant pressure.

ALWAYS RAIN—If you lived along the southern slopes of the Himalaya Mountains in India you would not have to worry about watering your lawn. Warm winds laden with moisture from the Indian ocean lose that moisture in rain when they hit the cool mountain slopes. In that area occurs the heaviest rainfall in the world—200 to 600 inches a year. The record rainfall was 800 inches at Asam, India. Contrast that with the 20 to 30 inches that fall each year in our area.

And the island of Java should be a pleasant place to live if you like rainfall. More than 80 inches of rainfall is recorded there. But if lightning frightened you, better keep away. Java is the most thunderous spot in the world, with no fewer than 223 storms days each year.

SPARKLE—Before Friday's rain the air was heavy and oppressive. The orange sun sank in to a brassy sky. While chatting with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Erickson for a few minutes we observed the distortion of the sun as it lowered near the western horizon. The Ericksons had halted their car near the yacht basin channel, interrupting our fishing, which was unsuccessful anyway. As we watched the sun it changed from round to oval. Then it flattened on the bottom and very suddenly it met the horizon and disappeared.

When the air is filled with dust and smoke, as it was during the dry spell, the sun appears orange colored. The smoke of numerous forest fires is a principal cause of that phenomenon in this locality. The falling rain cleans the air of thousands of tons of dust and impurities and creates that fine shower sprinkle so pleasant on a summer day. It is air conditioning on a grand scale that man can imitate but cannot emulate.

Roving Reporter

By Hal Boyle

New York, (AP)—Lou Stillman runs the best known sweat shop in America, but it isn't producing as much sweat as it used to.

"That's one reason boxing isn't the game it was—the boys just won't train hard enough," said Lou, who is the Elizabeth Araden of the jab and jolt set.

For thirty-one years Lou has operated Stillman's gym, an international indoor SPA where professional boxers—the best and the worst—beat each other into shape for their next fight. It is also a kind of fistic stock exchange where sharp-faced managers bang their brows together and arrange bouts.

Had All The Champions

In the dusty garden of the cauliflower ear, loud with muttered oaths and the thud of worn leather on worn flesh, redolent of wintergreen oil and old sweat, Stillman has watched more rounds of boxing than any man in history. Perhaps 1,250,000 or more.

Seven days a week, five hours a day, for more than three decades Lou has sat on a stool under the timing gong, watching muscles strain and gloved fists whack into people's faces.

"I figure 98 per cent of the boxers train here," he said. "I've had all the champions—from Dempsey to Joe Louis."

About 75 fighters a day work out on the bags or keep the three rings busy. The boxers in the chips hire sparring partners. The old ones coming up a train by boxing each other—saves money. His life as tycoon of the open-pore and nabob of the expanding bicep has conferred upon Lou a good-sized fortune, a dual personality, and the weary eye of a philosophic shark. His vocabulary has a double faucet like a shower—it runs pleasantly warm or murderously cold.

"Don't Dead!" he greets a bum or grifter, with a voice like shovelled coal. He also keeps a lengthening "Throw-'em-out" list of boxing hangers-on. Every time they climb the stairs to his gym, he has them bounced down the stairs like used pingpong balls.

Knives And Guns Barred

Occasionally unpaid fights break out in his gym between rival managers, between managers and their fighters, and between fighters and fighters. The cause is usually spontaneous combustion arising from disputes concerning the dollar.

Lou's grating snarl is enough to break up most fights. But he long ago put in a house rule banning knives and guns.

Lou says modern boxers are more intelligent and better educated than the flat-nose heroes of yesterday, but lack their stamina. "The oldtimers—fighters like Dempsey and Benny Leonard—really worked to get in condition. The kids today want to train with one foot in the gym and the other in the street."

Lou no longer will have much to do with a muscle after working hours. He's tired of them. Doesn't care to see bouts often, and doesn't associate with the fight crowd. He also has given up his hobbies—horseback riding and oil painting—and recently quit taking piano lessons.

"Couldn't get along with the teacher," he said. "I wanted to learn to play tennis and she wanted me to learn to play croquet."

Did he ever box himself? Lou looked around the gym floor of sweating arms, legs and bobbing heads.

"Think I'm crazy?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—It hasn't been publicized, but the census takers have unearthed the shocking fact that ten million American adults cannot read or write.

Yet Congress, willing to spend billions to train young men for war has bottled up the $300,000,000 aid-to-education bill to train young men and women for peace.

Georgia's Democratic Congressman Don Wheeler has been begging for 218 of his House mates to sign a discharge petition to force the federal-aid-to-education bill out of the education and labor committee where it has been salted away by the G. O. P. leadership. But he has not been able to scrape up more than 43 names.

Chief obstacles are Speaker Joe Martin and Majority Leader Charlie Halleck, who have ordered the committee not to let the bill out. Also, they have passed word to Republicans not to sign any discharge petition. So far only one Republican has defied these orders—North Dakota's Bill Lemke, who joined with 42 Democrats already on the petition.

However, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn also has quietly blocked the petition and has succeeded in keeping Texas and Virginia Democrats from signing.

LESS LITERATE THAN RUSSIA

Meanwhile, illiteracy in the United States has sunk to an alarming low—probably lower than Russia. What the public also doesn't realize is that the nation's million illiterates over 24 years old are not southern Negroes, but a majority of native-born Whites. Official statistics show that 4,200,000 adults, who cannot read or write, are Whites born in this country. Another 3,100,000 are foreign-born Whites, whereas only 2,700,000 are Negroes. The remaining handful are Latin Americans and Orientals by birth.

Furthermore, illiteracy isn't found exclusively in the south. For example, more than one million illiterate adults live in New York, another 696,000 in Pennsylvania and 462,000 in Illinois. However, 36 per cent of Louisiana's total population cannot read or write.

During the war, the draft boards weeded out 350,000 young men who could only sign their name with an X. Of these, 150,000 were physically fit to serve in the Army but were disqualified because of lack of education—a loss to the country of approximately 15 divisions.

Yet House leaders are not willing to spend a few million dollars on a bill already passed by the Senate and which would again make America the most enlightened nation in the world.

STATE DEPARTMENT'S FEEBLE VOICE

Not in years has Congress been caught with a better case of being wrong than in the current squabble over the Voice of America. Yet the diplomats haven't been able to make the public realize that Congress, not the diplomats, are to blame.

Last year Republican economists cut the Voice of America's appropriation to ribbons, told the state department to broadcast through private radio channels. The state department obeyed. It farmed out Latin American radio programs to the National Broadcasting company, which then proceeded to concoct a series of slipshod programs that insulted senators.

Now the senators are mad because the state department carried out their orders. They are also mad because the state department didn't have enough money to hire men to monitor the daily deluge of words which NBC and other private radio networks sent abroad.

But the state department is so meek, mild and inarticulate that it hasn't told the congressmen in decisive, reverberating language that it was all their own fault.

Note—The more you see of the state department's propaganda operation, the better Elmer Davis's job looks. Davis was wartime head of the office of information, got kicked around by Congress, did an effective job just the same.

PEOPLE USE THEIR OWN VOICE

Interesting fact about NBC's Voice of America broadcasts is that if NBC operated for General Foods or General Motors for the same carelessness that they worked for their government, they would be out of business. Looks like dividends came ahead of patriotism.

In contrast, thousands of individual Americans have been helping put across effective propaganda to Europe, with no financial help, no guidance from the state department and not even any thanks. Here are some of them:

The United National Council of Philadelphia is flooding Europe with letters and getting a lot of fine reaction in return. Clair McCollough of Station WGAL, Lancaster, Pa., Paul Bartles of KFRE, Fresno, Calif., and B. T. Whitmire of WFBC, Greenville, S. C., are arranging family programs from typical American neighborhoods—telling Europe about life in the U. S. A. World Wide Broadcasting Foundation is The Richmond, Va., Professional Institute transmitting them shortwave to Europe. . . got up a special edition of its college paper in French to be exchanged with French schools and universities. . . Mrs. Isabella Greenway King, former congresswoman from Arizona, has helped organize "operation democracy" which not only has sent relief to Europe, but follows it up with friendship letters. . . Generoso Pope, the New York Italian-American publisher, has helped conduct a shortwave trans-Atlantic radio contest in Italy on "How to win the peace and make democracy live." All sorts of people—Allis—Chalmers, Ingersoll watches, Harman, Bulova, Helibros watches, Endicott-Johnson shoes, Clipperton suits, Wings shirts, Emerson radios, Lee hats, Kruger Jewelry Co. of Austin, Tex., Martin Gruenberg in Seattle, Muskogee, Okla., Broadcasting Co.—all have contributed prizes to the Italian democracy contest.

There is only the most remote possibility that the leading candidates will pool their strength to nominate one of the three. Stassen and Dewey are at loggerheads on many fundamental issues and have made disparaging remarks about each other. Stassen and Taft are even further apart, particularly since Stassen entered the primary race in Ohio, Taft's home stamping ground. ## RUARK VISITS LAND OF INCAS

And Finds Man Hasn't Improved Much

By ROBERT C. RUARK
Lima, Peru—It is seldom I get trapped into visiting museums, but I always come out feeling despondent. This time, even more so, because I had observed the futility of man over a 3000 year span.

We hit Peru on Sunday, and there wasn't much open, so we wandered around a bit in the National Museum. It is full of Inca relics and mummies and pottery and fabrics and skulls. I never saw so many skulls in all my life. Nearly every one had a hole in it.

You can talk all you want to about the happy savage, living harmoniously in the hills. Phooey. This was the original site of that famous saying: "He needs such-and-such like a hole in the head." Some of these mortal remains had not one—but two, three and four holes in the head. Mr. John O'Rourke, my co-vagabond, suggests that there must have been an Irish strain in the pre-Columbian native, and that the national pastime must have been pasting each over the purple with a knotted ball bat.

Had Surgical Instruments
The funny thing was that these graping cavers in the skulls were very often obviously healed. Some had been subject to bone graft. Others had been rudely patched with thin, hammered strips of gold. Whole trays of competent-looking surgical tools have been dug up. From three to one thousand years ago, these babies could strap a patient to a board and trepan his conk as neatly as a modern medic.

It is my understanding that none of the owners of the skulls actually died of the cavities which let air into their heads. Oh, they might have felt a little giddy from time to time, but old age or the gout eventually got them, and the weeping widows tucked them into baskets and planted them deep.

These people knew things about pottery and weaving and fabric coloration that since have become largely lost. They were a big, handsome race—the Incas and their kinfolk up and down the coast and back in the Sierras. They dug some gold and silver and knew about modern design in architecture, and I believe they were chewing cinchona bark for fever a long time before we named it quinine. The sea was full of fish, the fields full of beans and peanuts, and the hills were loaded with llamas—a camel-like beast which they tell me may be milked, sheared and eaten. There was no housing problem, no income tax, no psychiatrists, no immigration laws, no atom bomb.

So they ran around in circles hitting each other over the head. No real excuse for it; they just liked to hit each other over the head. And, when they sometimes whacked a neighbor over the nut so successfully that he passed to his fathers, they chopped off said head and carried it around for laughs. All the trophy skulls, in addition to their sundry sand-traps and craters, bear a neat little hole between the eyes, bored so its owner could dangle the trophy from his wrist by a thong, like a handbag.

I got to thinking that mankind is largely an ingrained bum, and impervious to experience or preaching. Regard us today, 3000 years later. We have better surgery, more medicine, great sanitation, plastic pants, television, radar, clothes made out of glass and milk and food compressed into pills. We've got every mistake in the book to go by, but the modern alm hasn't switched a hair from the Inca's creed.

Choose a good strong club. Select a likely neighbor. Bat him on the head. Except in our case it appears modern humanity is attempting to inflict confusions on everybody.

"O'Rourke and I fell to brooding about what they would say when they dug us up, 3000 years hence, until we grew so sad we went back to the hotel and ordered a pisco sour. Pisco is the national beverage, or affliction, and it is very sneaky. O'Rourke said later that maybe it wasn't war clubs made those holes in those skulls, after all.

The First Church Of Christ Scientist, Meets In Boston

Boston, Mass., June 7—Declaring that democratic government is the instrument through which an irresistible spiritual force is being channeled into the affairs of men, The Christian Science Board of Directors today urged Christian Scientists, in annual meeting, here, to work strongly and actively for the defense of free governments throughout the world.

Rightly conceived, the Directors told the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, democratic government is something more than an aggregation of legislative acts and legalized rules of conduct.

"It is the orderly unfoldment of the moral character and spiritual integrity of its citizens," the spokesmen for the worldwide Christian Science movement affirmed. As such, they said, free government rightly merits active defense of its sacred purpose, in addition to the pious declarations of allegiance to its outer form.

Thousands of Christian Scientists from many parts of the world heard the Directors issue a distinct challenge to the proud, boastful "Goliaths of today," as they go to and fro in the earth. Denying God, they are denying their own life, for God is the only life of man," they stated.

The incoming President, Harry C. Browne, whose only official duty is to preside at the Annual Meeting, declared that the success of any organization, institution or government depends upon the spiritual efficacy of the governing or controlling instrument.

"With the problem of world peace confronting us," he said, "these same divine qualities applied in individual thought and action will be found as potent and as powerful as they were in Jesus' time."

New high advertising peaks for The Christian Science Monitor were reported. A new air-mail plan in keeping with the trend of worldwide news distribution was described under which subscribers in London, Los Angeles, and San Francisco can obtain speedier deliveries.

HARRY C. BROWNE
Incoming President of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

More than 6,000,000 people listen to the weekly Monitor broadcast of "The Christian Science Monitor Views the News," it was disclosed by the Trustees of the Publishing Society.

Circulation of all Christian Science periodicals was reported to be continuing to set new high records.

From the Committee on Publication, center of an official, worldwide network of information, came the report of a post-war revival of religious activities in foreign countries.

The retiring President of The Mother Church, Mrs. Helen Chaffee Elwell, of East Hiebron, N. H., and Boston, reiterated the need for zealously guarding the democratic privileges of free assembly and freedom of worship, which Christian Scientists, she said, were exercising today in annual meeting.

Individuals and nations can no longer remain isolationist in thought or action, Mrs. Elwell commented. Selfishness, she said, gives place to unselfishness, lethargy and inaction are superseded by the prompt response to a brother's need.

"Such action," she said, "constitutes democracy in action." In the Clerk's report, the broadening expanse of Christian science activities throughout the world was evidenced. In Germany and Japan, he said, groups of Christian Scientists with occupation forces are holding services. The Christian Science church in Tokyo has been reestablished, he disclosed, with Reading Room and Sunday school.

At Pearl Harbor, and on the islands of Guam and Okinawa, Christian Science services are held in Navy chapels, the Clerk reported. Temporary aid is being given to Christian Scientists living in 21 hard-pressed countries, he pointed out.

Other widespread activities of The Mother Church were reported by the Clerk, such as the supplying of food, literature, books, and clothing to Germany, and the setting up of a network of joint welfare committees through which supplies can be channeled to displaced persons and isolated students.

Army Recruiters Sought For Duty In U. P. District

Choice spots on Army and Air Force recruiting duty in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan are now available to members of the Enlisted Reserve Corps who volunteer for active service, Major Wayne B. Young, commanding the Wisconsin recruiting District, said today.

A new Army directive authorizes the Wisconsin Recruiting District, responsible for enlistment activities in the state and Upper Michigan, to provide openings for 52 enlisted reservists.

The Army and Air Force recruiting station here has been allotted a quota of four reservists who can volunteer from this area.

Reservists can return for a nine to 12 month period, Major Young pointed out. After their time is up, they may extend their tour of duty providing their services are satisfactory and the need for them continues.

Houghton Airport Nearly Completed

Houghton, Mich. — With actual construction operations at the new Houghton county airport at Oneco, between Hancock and Calumet, one mile off US-41, more than 80 per cent complete, the Copper Country is about to realize an ambition of many years for an airport facility which will accommodate large airliners and freight transport planes.

Since work at the airport was resumed on May 19, the Thornton Construction Co., the contractor, has been pushing operations with all possible speed, and John Weatton, engineer in charge for the Michigan State Board of Aeronautics, stated today, that, with weather permitting and materials available, the $741,000 project should be completed some time in August.

Three runways are being constructed, two of which will be 500 feet wide and 5,800 feet long, and the third 500 feet wide and 5,000 feet long. The larger runways will be surfaced with oil aggregate over a seven-inch gravel base for 5,200 feet in length and 150 feet wide. The smaller runway will be turfed. A taxiway to the hangar location will be 2,000 feet long and 50 feet wide.

After purchase of the 578-acre site at Oneco, clearing and grading of the land was started in 1946. Before the 1947 winter set in, the Thornton Construction Co. had made considerable progress on its contract.

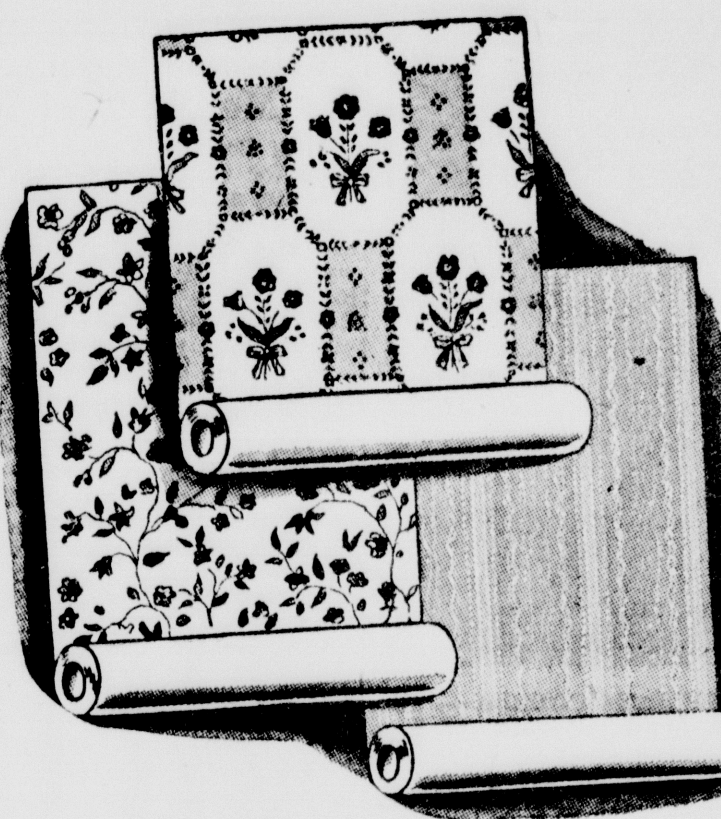

Belgian trade with the United States averages $100,000,000 a year.

Corinne Waeghe,
Melvin Teal Wed

Miss Corinne Theresa Waeghe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Waeghe, of 521 S. 10th street, and Melvin Arthur Teal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Teal of Bark River were married Saturday morning in St. Joseph's church with the Rev. Fr. Alphonse conducting the nuptial high mass.

The bride was given by her father in the double ring ceremony, with Eva Cossette, organist, playing the processional and recessional. At the offertory Mrs. Roy Olson sang "Ave Maria", while Mrs. E. Bonifas sang the "Benedictus" and Doris Costley the "Agnus Dei". The church was decorated in peonies, gladioli and snazdragons.

Mrs. Robert Young, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the couple was attended by Miss Pauline Waeghe of Gladstone, cousin of the bride, and Wayne Teal, brother of the bridegroom. Ronald Bruce was usher and Grace Ann Waeghe of Gladstone was flower girl.

Wore White Satin

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin, whose baroque neckline was edged with imported illusion lace. The bodice was fitted, and the long sleeves ended at a point. The illusion lace also formed a penum over the full skirt that extended into a train. The trailing veil was edged with bridal lace attached to a sweet-heart headpiece. Her only jewelry were pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of white calla lilies.

The matron of honor wore pink silk crepe in Colonial styling, and style green silk crepe in similar style was worn by the bridesmaid. The flower girl was dressed in yellow silk crepe. All wore sweetheart hats of tulle and carried bouquets of pink rose buds and candytuft.

Mrs. Waeghe, the bride's mother, chose a peplum dress of grey printed sheer trimmed in black lace. A black picture hat and a white orchid completed her costume. Mrs. Teal wore a grey pinstripe suit with pink accessories and a white orchid.

Wedding Dance

The wedding party was served breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, and a buffet lunch to 85 guests. Two hundred and fifty guests were served at a wedding dinner Saturday evening at the Bark River community hall, followed by dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Teal left for a trip to Niagara Falls and other eastern points of interest, and upon their return will make their home at Bark River.

The bride was a secretary in an Escanaba law office, and the groom is employed by his father in their business at Bark River. Both of the young people are graduates of St. Joseph's high school, Class of 1946.

Attending the wedding from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arnolds, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kushner, Mrs. Jerry Meyers and daughter Beverly, and Rosa-

No Hate Is Good
Rule for Clubs

BY RUTH MILLETT

"No hats" was the rule for business sessions at the recent national convention of the League of Women Voters.

The reason given for the ban was that "high and fancy hats prevent proper visibility for action on the floor."

Those business sessions must have made a refreshing sight. A group of clubwomen at work, without their fancy hats!

It's a safe bet that nine out of 10 of those women looked far more dignified, and far more intelligent hatless, than they would have looked in the hats they might have worn.

For there is something about clubwomen's hats that puts them in a class by themselves. They are, as a rule, the highest, fanciest, most flower-bedecked bonnets to be found anywhere.

Hat Stopper

It's as though each clubwoman had purposely combed the town to find the most eye-arresting hat to be had—a hat to impress every other woman and thereby give its wearer complete self-assurance.

Taken one by one, the clubwomen's hats might not be too ludicrous. But put them all together—long feathers next to fluffy feathers, red roses beside lilies, big brims and tall crowns—and the effect is usually overwhelming.

In such a gathering you can't see the women for the hats. Much less have "proper visibility for action on the floor."

DEADLY EXPOSURE

Two of the eight gases in use at the end of World War I will penetrate any gas mask. The two in question are not lethal, but are used in conjunction with deadly gases, since they cause the victim to tear off his gas mask and so expose himself to certain death.

Flattering Suit
Is Worth Price

BY ALICIA HART

NEA Staff Writer

One hears women of a certain age say so often that they intend to splurge on a dress which has the power to top years off their looks.

Many of these women carry out that threat. And the dresses they buy accomplish their purpose. But too often the dress is the wrong kind—the dazzling and impractical evening gown which seldom is worn.

From such a gown the lady derives her "Cinderella-for-a-night" lift and returns to her less glamorous wardrobe feeling her years as much as before.

If you're going to splurge, invest in a knockout costume which you can use as a wardrobe mainstay. Let your choice be a wonderful suit, as rejuvenating in design and as "lifting" to your morale as an eye-stopping evening dress. Even if you have to break the piggy bank in order to buy a

You'll wear it so often that you'll begin to feel that those years off your appearance which it helped to top off are permanently severed.

That's what counts—not one of those temporary rejuvenations which a woman gets, say, from a dream gown which she will only have occasion to wear once or twice a year.

Miss Sargent
Is Bride Of Dean Konell

One of the loveliest weddings in many seasons was solemnized Saturday afternoon when Rev. Gustav Lund officiated at a double-ring ceremony in Bethany Lutheran church, uniting Miss Madeline Rose Sargent and Dean Elgin Konell in holy marriage.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Dennison of Nahma, was beautiful in a gown of sheer white organdy over ice-blue taffeta, with a fitted bodice, yoke ruffle and ruffles extending from the waistline to the end of the long train.

A triangular pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, matched the pearl-studded tiara which held a finger-tip illusion veil in place. She carried a bouquet of white roses, blue forget-me-nots and streamer-caught lily of the valley spray.

Before the colorful procession of the bridal party, "Promise Me" was sung by Earl Owens, a duet, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," by Mrs. Forrest Lawrie and Donald Belongie, and "One Alone" was sung by Mr. Belongie.

As Miss Glad, church organist, played Lohengrin's wedding march, the six ushers in formal attire, proceeded down the white carpeted aisle. They were: Merritt Nolden of Washington, D. C.; Merlyn Drake of Milwaukee; Lloyd Elath of Escanaba; Herbert Scheneman and Russell Lee of Escanaba; Bertil Modine of Stockholm, Sweden.

The six bridesmaids were attired in organdy gowns styled with yoke ruffles, fitted bodices, lace ruffled skirts in pink, blue and yellow, with large back bows and floor length streamers of contrasting satin ribbons. They wore French poke brims of ruffled organdy tied under the chin with contrasting ribbons and long fingerless gloves of organdy. Their bouquets of roses, sweet peas and snapdragons were in harmonizing tones.

Serving as bridesmaids were the Misses Lenore Gurnville, Betty Lundeen, Audrey Jacques, June Peterson, Mrs. Stanton Abrahamson, of Escanaba, and Mrs. Forest Lawrie of Iron River.

The matron of honor, Mrs. E. Stanley Hurd, of Rhinelander, Wis., was similarly attired in peach organdy with orchid contrasts, while the little flower girl, Miss Bonnie Lynn Lawrie, wore an orchid organdy gown with full ruffled skirt and peach satin trim. She too wore a French poke brim of ruffled organdy and carried a tiny basket of rose petals which she cast before the path of the bride.

The ring-bearer, Brian Christensen, wore a white linen suit and carried the rings on a white and blue satin pillow.

George McQuire, close friend of the bride, escorted her to the altar, where she was met by the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor of this city. He was attended by Forest Lawrie of Iron River.

Mrs. Jack Parin, sister of the bride, substituted for the bride's mother who was ill, and wore an aqua taffeta gown with gold accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow tea roses.

Mrs. W. J. Taylor, mother of the bridegroom, wore a Nile-green organza gown with pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The reception which followed the ceremony was held at Bell's restaurant with a buffet supper from 6 to 9 p. m. Entertainment was furnished by Bill Clark at the Hammond organ. The decorations were large white bells with pink and white trailers. The four-tiered, rectangular teal and white wedding cake, upon which a miniature bride and groom stood with large bells under lovebirds was the flower-covered table centerpiece.

It was surrounded by white snapdragons and ferns enclosed by two bluebirds for happiness. On either side of the cake were two large bridal dolls flanked by tall white candles in crystal candleabra. Mrs. James Olson was in charge of decorations.

The wedding dance was held in the Sherman hotel from 9 to 1 with Gordon Sullivan's orchestra furnishing the music. The grand march led by the bridal party was concluded with the throwing of the bridal bouquet, which Miss Cathy Catniss caught.

The bride's going-away ensemble was a three-piece grey, gabardine suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The couple have left for a wedding trip through Canada to New York City and Washington, D. C. In two weeks they will be at home, 320 South 11th street.

For the past three years the bride has been employed as cashier at the A. and P. store. The bridegroom is associated in the restaurant business with his mother.

Colored movies were taken of the wedding ceremony and at the reception.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were:

Merritt Nolden of Washington, D. C.; Merlyn Drake of Milwaukee; Frank McBride of Baraboo, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Tessier and daughter Marion of Oconto, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lindstrom of Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hurd of Rhinelander, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Beauchamp and Nicholas Dennison of Nahma, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gustafson of Phelps, Wis.; Mrs. M. N. Mueller of Wausau, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sattler of Chicago and the following from Iron River: Mrs. Clara Gustafson, Mrs. Edith Aspholm, Mrs. G. Sundquist, Albert Wickstrom, Nels Sjodin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hare and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hare, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartsdeht, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Oberg and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Brooks.

WILL BE BRIDE—Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Anne Delloria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delloria of Chicago to John Polishak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Polishak, of Peroville. The wedding will take place in Chicago July 24.

What People Are Thinking

By Elmo Roper

When the American public decides it wants something, it doesn't like to hear the word "no" — even from prospective Presidential candidates.

The results of our latest public opinion poll, taken especially for this column, show that General Dwight D. Eisenhower outdistances all leading rivals in either party as the people's choice for President.

It will be remembered that Eisenhower ran very strongly indeed when the "Fortune" survey pitted him as a potential Republican nominee against President Truman last December.

Suppose Truman and Eisenhower should be the candidates for President next time, which do you think you would be likely to favor?

	December 1947	%
Truman	57.9
Eisenhower	35.7
Express No Opinion	6.4

But the "Fortune" survey was taken at the height of the first Eisenhower boom. In January of this year, he declared that he was not a candidate for the Presidency. Many political observers believed that his statement not only took him out of any active race as far as he was concerned but would also take him out of the race as far as the public was concerned.

But talk of Eisenhower as a candidate persisted. Some Democrats spoke of him as the potential nominee. And lately there has been a revival of "draft Eisenhower" sentiment among some Republicans. We therefore decided to include his name in our final pre-convention survey—to see whether his flat "no" had changed the minds of the voters.

This survey, just completed, shows that Eisenhower is still the strongest candidate either party could nominate. In it we first ran the new president of Columbia University as a Republican. A cross-section of the voters was asked:

Suppose the three candidates running for President next fall were Truman, Eisenhower and Wallace. As you feel right now, which one of the three do you think you would vote for?

	June 1948	%
Truman	26.4
Eisenhower	52.7
Wallace	5.3
Express No Opinion	15.6

Not only would Eisenhower get twice as many votes as Truman of the election were held today, but other results from the same survey show that he would do much better than any other Republican who might oppose the President.

A comparison with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as the Republican nominee is particularly interesting. For Vandenberg, like Eisenhower, has said he does not want the nomination, and he also continues to be mentioned as a "dark horse" or compromise candidate. This latest poll asked:

Suppose the three candidates running for President next fall were Truman, Vandenberg and Wallace. As you feel right now, which one of the three do you think you would vote for?

	June 1948	%
Truman	37.4
Vandenberg	35.3
Wallace	6.9
Express No Opinion	20.4

Vandenberg would have tough sledding today in a race against Truman, whereas Eisenhower could win hands down. Of course, if either or both were to declare their availability or were to be drafted, their popularity could reasonably be expected to rise.

After testing Eisenhower's popularity as a Republican, this latest survey then crossed party lines and ran a series of trial heats pitting Eisenhower as the Democratic nominee against the leading Republican contenders. The voters were asked:

Suppose the three candidates running for President next fall were Eisenhower, Dewey (or Stassen or Taft or Vandenberg) and Wallace. As you feel right now, which one of the three do you think you would vote for?

	June 1948	%
Eisenhower, Dewey, Wallace	42.3
Dewey	33.8
Wallace	5.6
Express No Opinion	18.3

Eisenhower, Stassen, Wallace

Eisenhower	40.1
Stassen	37.3
Wallace	5.3
Express No Opinion	17.3

Eisenhower, Taft, Wallace

Eisenhower	53.8
Taft	19.6
Wallace	6.4
Express No Opinion	20.2

Eisenhower, Vandenberg, Wallace

Eisenhower	46.3
Vandenberg	26.5
Wallace	6.4
Express No Opinion	20.8

As a Democratic candidate, Eisenhower also leads the field, outdistancing all of his Republican opponents. Stassen is the only Republican who would run him a close race today. The Minnesota seems to have captured the imagination of a group of voters who want him, whoever his opponent may be. But in the case of Dewey, Taft and Vandenberg, the General is far out ahead.

This poll was taken some four months after most observers thought Eisenhower's action in taking himself out of the race would cause the public to forget him as a candidate. The results clearly show that he is today the choice of the voters at large—Democratic and Republican—as their next President.

If the election were held today and if Eisenhower were to run as the Republican nominee, it would be difficult, if not impossible, for any Democrat to beat him. And if the Republicans do not name him at their convention in Philadelphia a couple of weeks hence, the Democrats could name him as their standard bearer in July and be almost equally certain of victory.

It is hard to find another case in modern political history where a man who has not lifted a finger to campaign for the Presidency has been so plainly the choice of the electorate.

The next President of the United States will be nominated at Philadelphia within five or six weeks. Delegates to party conventions do not always reflect the popular will, and it is impossible now to predict who will be named. But so far as the people who will do the voting next November are concerned, the choice is Eisenhower—on either the Republican or the Democratic ticket.

RIGHT OF WAYMay Now Foreclose On Hiawatha Metals Co.

Official decree in the case of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation vs the Hiawatha Metal Products company, heard Thursday before Judge Herbert Runnels in a special term of Schoolcraft county circuit court at Sault Ste. Marie has not as yet been filed on record at the office of the county clerk here. However, Judge Runnels issued a statement from the bench to the effect that the RFC would have a clear right of way in foreclosure proceedings against the now defunct company. His statement indicated that the mortgage could seek satisfaction on the $100,000 loan along with an additional $9,000 representing interest, taxes and insurance.

Attorneys for the Hiawatha company had sought to avoid foreclosure proceedings by presenting certain allegations which were ruled out by Judge Runnels as improper.

Officials of the First National Bank were subpoenaed to appear at the session and were present, but Fred Hahne, who had the loan in charge, was the only one to testify.

It was brought out in the testimony that the Hiawatha Metals Company, headed by Emanuel Cohen of Brooklyn, N. Y., had been given the loan by the RFC on July 9, 1946 and that but one payment, amounting to $500 was made on the loan to date.

It is considered highly doubtful that the Hiawatha Metals company will have to meet the payment in time to avoid foreclosure in which event the properties will be sold to satisfy the mortgage. This sale will, in all likelihood, be made to the highest bidder.

SENIORS HEAR
REV. SCHOBERTTold Christ Is Answer
To World Problems

The Gospel of Jesus Christ was recommended as the guide that will see humanity safely through the dangers begotten of the atomic age, by the Rev. William Schobert, pastor of the Free Baptist church at Baccalaureate exercises at the high school auditorium Sunday evening.

The people of every nation on this earth have become so enmeshed with the philosophy of fear that they can think of no way out, he said. Our problems are not alone confined to our country but to the world he added. We are learning that we are our brother's keeper, and with this idea in mind, he emphasized that "the Gospel is the Power of God unto salvation."

Education, he said, should be something more than a mere accumulation of facts and that education without purpose would solve no world problems. He therefore recommended to the graduates that they place their reliance, in their plans for the future on the Savior of mankind, quoting "In Him we live and move and have our being."

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Herbert Wilson, pastor of St. Alban's Episcopal church and Scripture reading and prayer were given by the Rev. D. A. MacPhee, pastor of the Free Methodist church.

Immediately before the sermon the High School Glee Club sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," and were accompanied by Carl Olson and Norman, violinists and Miss Nadine Westin at the piano. Following the sermon, Miss Margo Viergever sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd," with musical improvisation from Tchaikovsky's "Fifth Symphony."

Daily Vacation
Bible Classes
To Start June 14

Daily Vacation Bible schools will soon open in various Protestant churches in the city, the classes being conducted on a co-operative basis in a number of instances.

The classes will begin on Monday, June 14 and, with the exception of the Bethel Baptist school, will for two weeks, the schools being held mornings. Bethel Baptist church school, due to plans the church schedule, will be held but for one week and will be conducted both mornings and evenings.

The Presbyterian church and the First Baptist church will join forces in the conduct of their schools. Children in primary groups will be cared for in the Presbyterian church and the other, older children, in the Baptist church.

Children of the First Methodist church will be cared for at the Bethel Baptist church school.

The Rev. William Schobert, speaking jointly for the pastors of the various churches holding the schools, states that children in any Protestant church home are cordially invited to attend any of these schools they choose. The primary purpose of these schools is to teach the child the fundamentals of religion, to teach the child to have faith in God and put reliance on that faith in daily living. The classes will be in the hands of competent instructors who will not only be able to teach the children but make the sessions pleasant.

Ahead of Last Year

Cleveland (AP)—Iron ore shipments are reaching lower lake ports this season at a rate 30.13 per cent ahead of last year, the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association reported.

U. S. and Canadian ports had handled 19,236,548 gross tons up to yesterday, compared with 14,321,264 tons last season to June 1. The earlier start of shipping this year accounted for most of the increase but during May the 11,609,367-ton haul exceeded the 10,372,853 tons carried in May, 1947.

The Great Northern dock at Superior, Wis., has loaded 32.59 per cent of this year's cargo, and another 44 per cent has been divided almost evenly between docks at Duluth and Two Harbors, Minn. Canadian ports have shipped one per cent of the total.

Leather Treated
To Avoid Mildew

Washington.—Leather goods, treated with a new dressing developed here by the National Bureau of Standards, is safe from mildew and other fungi even under tropical conditions.

The important ingredients of the new dressing are 20 per cent of a mixture of equal parts of neatsfoot oil and mineral oil, 2 per cent paranthrophenol, 10 per cent cyclohexanone, and 68 per cent either perchloroethylene or Stoddard's solvent. The first preserves flexibility, and the second is the fungicide. The perchloroethylene is preferred over Stoddard's solvent because it is non-inflammable.

Escanaba Paper Co. Supervisor Talks

At Kiwanis Meet

The conference method for training supervisory personnel in industry was explained in a talk by Harold Vanderberghe of the Escanaba Paper company at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at St. Stephen's Guild hall this noon.

Vanderberghe, a member of the supervisory force of the Grooms mill, was chosen as a conference leader and was sent to the Mead Corporation's Industrial Relations school in Chillicothe, O., for a period of training.

He was introduced at today's meeting by Ernest G. Bennett, general manager, who stated that it has become an established policy of American industry in recent years to keep its foremen and supervisors informed about the problems of management.

Vanderberghe listed the functions and responsibilities of industrial foremen, and described how the conference plan is used to discuss their various problems, such as the handling of men, enforcing of disciplinary regulations, and other personnel matters.

The next meeting of the Kiwanis club will be held at the Sherman hotel Monday noon when James Belsky, aerogeophysicist of the Geology division of the U. S. Department of Interior, will be the speaker. Belsky is now engaged in an aerial magnetic survey of iron ore deposits in Dickinson county. He will relate his experiences in this work at Point Barrow, Alaska, Mexico and the Lake Superior iron ore region.

Rotarians Visit Birds Eye Plant

Members of the Escanaba Rotary club this afternoon were conducted on a tour of the Birds Eye Veneer company plant, one of the city's leading industries. The tour was made by invitation of Julie Lee, vice president and general manager of the company, and a Rotary club member.

Long Strike Ended By Packinghouse Workers at Wilson

Chicago, June 7 (AP)—The terms under which 8,000 CIO United Packinghouse Workers ended their 82-day strike against Wilson & Co. Saturday still were unclear today.

The union announced the workers would return to their jobs today under settlement terms reached May 21 with the other big packers—Swift, Armour, and Cudahy. That agreement provided for a nine-cent-an-hour wage raise and reinstatement without prejudice of all workers except those accused of alleged unlawful acts during the strike. Re-employment of any strikers so accused was to be submitted to arbitration.

A spokesman for Wilson said last night, however, that the union's action in calling off the strike was a surprise to company officials and came without any negotiations with the firm.

New York Central Brakeman Held In $10,000 Burglaries

Grand Rapids, June 7 (AP)—A 21-year-old New York Central Railroad brakeman was being held here today in connection with a series of Kent and Allegan county burglaries which police estimated had netted from $7,000 to $10,000.

Deputies James Toohey and Clarence Randle said the brakeman, Robert M. Smith, of Pullman, Allegan county, had confessed 15 thefts after officers recovered $2,000 of the allegedly stolen goods from his farm home 17 miles west of Allegan.

Also under arrest was Jack S. Weiss, 24-year-old railroad fireman of Kalamazoo, who police said had been implicated by Smith in at least two of the Kent county robberies.

Officers said Smith was to be questioned further regarding at least 20 additional thefts in the two-county area during the past three months.

Michigan Ottawas Claim Government Owes Them Millions

Petoskey, Mich., June 7 (AP)—Ottawa Indians of northern Michigan were suing today to collect millions of dollars they claimed Congress should have paid their ancestors for land more than a century ago.

At a meeting of 300 Ottawas here Saturday, the tribe appointed A. B. Donald and Charles B. Rogers, of Tulsa, Okla., to handle their claims.

Members of the tribe in Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin are seeking a total of $17,000,000 from the federal government.

They say the government paid one to six cents an acre for land in the early 1800's after making land treaties setting the minimum at $1.25 per acre.

The money sought by the Ottawas is roughly one third of the total claim to be presented by the Ottawas, Chippewas and Potawatamies.

TONS OF DUST

Several surveys by city engineers show that in metropolitan areas from 15 to 1800 tons of dust fall on each square mile of territory every year.

The island of Sicily is the largest in the Mediterranean. Its northeast leeward coast, lies two miles from the Italian mainland.

Married Salesman Held For Kidnaping York, Pa., Bride, 17

Wichita, Kas., June 7 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl and a married salesman, charged with kidnaping her, were in police custody today.

The salesman is Arthur Deets jr., 23, of Kingston, Pa. He is the father of two children. The girl, Mrs. Mary Kalinoski, York, Pa., is a bride of less than two months. Police said they ran away May 28 shortly before the girl's high school graduation. They were arrested here yesterday.

Mrs. Kalinoski told officers she left willingly with Deets.

"We know we love each other," Deets said.

Thomas T. Kalinoski, 25, New Britain, Conn., who said he and the girl were wed secretly April 15, filed the kidnaping charge at York.

Mrs. Kalinoski said she respected her husband but loved Deets. Police Detective Frank Persons reported.

Chrysler Workers Return; New Ford Prices Spotlit

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—The bulk of Chrysler corporation's 75,000 workers returned to the job today after nearly a month's idleness resulting from their wage strike.

In the meantime the auto industry continued speculation over Ford's price increase, attempting to judge its effect, if any, on other car prices.

With this and its pending wage negotiations for its 107,000 production workers, Ford took over the spotlight in the industry's changing economics pattern.

Ford and the CIO United Auto Workers, who demand a 30 cents an hour increase in pay, start negotiations June 14.

The price for the new 1949 Ford, which comes out in the middle of this month, was raised nearly 9 per cent over the previous models. Ford announced an increase of $85 to $125.

Wisconsin Senator Swaps Insults With Communist Editor

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) and the editor of the Communist newspaper The Daily Worker traded insults today over the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Wiley started the name calling by sending an open letter to The Daily Worker saying its "alleged news reporting and editorial comment" on the bill to curb Communism were "the cheapest, foulest sort of gutter journalism."

He said Wiley, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, showed "contempt for the American people" by shutting off testimony on the bill.

Wiley, he said, had allowed "only four days in which to deliver a measure which will revolutionize the entire legal system of civil liberties in the United States."

Korean Girl Leaves Notes; Body Found In Lake At Lansing

Lansing, June 7 (AP)—The body of a young Korean Michigan State girl student dragged out of Lake Lansing lay in a funeral home here today awaiting instructions from her wealthy parents in Korea.

Officers removed the body yesterday after a four-day search which began when she disappeared from a rowboat, leaving behind several filled notes.

State police termed the death of the girl, Yoon Soek Chai, 24, a probable suicide.

Her cousin Yoon Chai Hyuan, 25, a student at Albion college, remained here pending disposal of the body. He told police he was engaged to the girl and that she had followed him to this country.

She was reported missing Wednesday when a rowboat she had hired was found floating empty in the lake.

parting in a European cooperative economic program, including, of course, Germany itself."

Occupation Forces Stay
On security, the official statement reported this general provision:

"The United States, the United Kingdom and French delegates reiterated the firm views of their governments that there could not be any general withdrawal of their forces from Germany until the peace of Europe is secured."

"During this period there should be no general withdrawal of the forces of occupation of the United States, France or the United Kingdom without prior consultation. It was further recommended that the governments concerned should consult if any of them should consider that there was a danger of resurgence of German military power, or of the adoption by Germany of a policy of aggression."

The conference also agreed that the military governors of the western zones should create a continued disarmament and demilitarization in Germany.

The communique on the London conference was issued by the state department at the unusually early hour of 5 a. m., Eastern Standard time.

Boy Electrocuted By Short Circuit In Swimming Pool

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy was electrocuted when a short circuit in an underground power line sent current through a steel ladder in a public swimming pool, Dr. Winfield Yarnell, deputy coroner, said.

Dr. Yarnell said the boy, Clyde Peters, of Harrisburg, died of electric burns yesterday as the water was changed in a 15-foot circle around the ladder at the Gay-Way swimming pool.

The boy and another swimmer, Rosemary Fritsch, 11, were within the charged area at the time. Both suddenly stiffened and sank beneath the surface, Dr. Yarnell said.

Two youths who saw the Peters boy and Rosemary sink, leaped to the rescue but were themselves affected by the current and had to be helped to the pool's edge.

Both young Peters and the girl were taken to the Polyclinic hospital, where doctors said she was not hurt seriously.

District Attorney Carl B. Shelley said he ordered the pool closed pending a further investigation of the boy's death.

Wage Deal Averts Los Angeles Bus, Street Car Strike

Los Angeles, June 7 (AP)—Street cars and buses were running in Los Angeles today, much to the relief of perhaps two million persons who use them to get to and from work.

Workers of the Los Angeles Transit Lines were scheduled to go on strike last midnight, but company officials and the AFL-CIO Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees settled some of their differences.

Workers got an immediate five cents an hour wage boost and the parties to the dispute agreed to arbitrate whether an additional increase is to be granted between a five cent minimum and a 15-cent maximum.

The workers will continue to work 40 hours a week, not 48 hours as the company wanted. Their increase is retroactive to June 1. Agreement was reached on the creation of a pension plan.

Transit Line workers have been paid $1.35 top salary.

Wife Found Dying In Road; Ypsilanti Husband Questioned

Ypsilanti, Mich., June 7 (AP)—A Ypsilanti metal worker was questioned today by police after his wife was found dying in the street.

The husband, John Sadler, 47, called police to report that his wife was missing from their car when he arrived home from a party at the home of friends.

Officers found the woman, Marie, 46, on the street. She died a short time later at Beyer Memorial hospital of "multiple fractures."

"She must have jumped or fell from the car," Sadler told Police Capt. Emil Susterka.

Susterka quoted Sadler as saying he did not miss his wife until he arrived home and found the car door open and her gone.

No charge was placed against Sadler.

Bic Cities Prepare For Polio Outbreak

New York, June 7 (AP)—The national foundation for infantile paralysis is preparing for possible widespread outbreaks of polio in densely-populated areas.

The foundation, announcing its preparations yesterday, cited a sharp rise in cases during the past month.

A total of 514 cases were reported during the four-week period ended May 29, compared with 143 in the same period last year, Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, the foundation's medical director, said.

five major agreements of the London conference, marked the opening of a new and perhaps critical phase in the relations between the Soviet Union and the western powers over Germany.

Illegal, Says Moscow
Russia served notice weeks ago that it would not consider the decisions of the London meeting as legal.

For organization of a western Germany government along federal lines to be set up by the German people themselves, the London conference prescribed the following steps:

(The London agreements are subject to approval of the six governments but the only country in which there is expected to be a real argument over their acceptance is France.)

1. The military governors of the western zones should meet jointly with the ministers president of western Germany at a date yet to be disclosed.

2. The ministers president should be authorized at the meeting to convene a German constituent assembly to prepare a constitution for the approval of the German states concerned.

3. The legislative bodies of the various states will determine rules and procedures for selecting their delegates to the assembly.

4. The military governors (U. S., Britain, France) will determine whether the assembly's constitution draft is in line with the principle of a federal form of government with "adequate central authority" and guarantees of individual freedoms. If they approve, the draft will be submitted to ratification by the people of the German states.

5. The military governors also should authorize, at their projected meeting, studies of proposed boundary changes among the German states.
